The trees around the bowling green had now been removed, a decision needed to be made on where the gate would be positioned, but everyone was happy with the fence. On Friday, a welfare cabin would be arriving at the site and the contractor for the construction of the new building would need keys to the gate. Electric and water supply from pavilion would be used, but the contractor would have these metered and reimburse the PC for the cost of any usage; if any upgrade was needed for the supply this would be covered by the contractor. Heras fencing for the construction of the new community building would be installed on Monday.
